Hi Printmakers,

I wish you all a happy, healthy, prosperous, and creative 2023.

We look forward to getting down to the serious fun of printmaking after the break.

Our call for entries for the 2023 Contemporary Print Media Awards has gone out and we anticipate seeing many beautiful works on display.

Thank you to our sponsors.

I would like to thank the committee and past committee members who have continued to work hard behind the scenes to keep things ticking over.

Jo Wood has been in touch to say that circumstances prevent her from remaining on the committee, but that she is happy to remain on board as membership coordinator and bank signatory.

Thank you, Jo, for your continued interest and support.

There is a hard copy membership in the body of the newsletter for those of you who cannot join online, which is our preferred method.

I look forward to seeing lots of exhibitions and some fine work in the coming year.

Enjoy !

Elizabeth Morrison

President.

Congratulations Shanti Gelmi.

Printmaking

Workshops with

Francesco Geronazzo

18th of December 2022 - Dry point and Carborundum - 2 hours $49

Generating tonal effects without the use of any chemical it's the aim of this 2 hour class. Being able to combine the drawing side of the process (dry point) with darker areas and details (carborundum) would be the focus of the workshop. This would make possible expand sizes of the plates while keeping the environment safe and sound.

15th of January 2023 - Monoprinting - 2 hours $45

In this course (90 minutes) we will work with the natural environment around us. Working solely with natural forms: seeds/stems/leaves etc.. Anything else that you have sourced from nature can be included if you like. We will provide a variety of articles for you to choose from as well. We will produce a kaleidoscopic variety of images referencing back to the origins of the natural world around us. We will weave through various compositions, coloured prints and natural pigments derived from resins and spices.

22nd of January 2023 - Line etching 2 hours - $49

Learn foundation skills applied in printmaking through a range of techniques; work on zinc or aluminum and cardboard plates. We will work with different methods like Etching and Drypoint to start with, the chromatic options are also limitless! This 2 hour workshop introduces the intaglio range of techniques to explore and expand the boundaries of traditional and contemporary printmaking.
